H. U. M. A. N. Healthy Vending, a Los Angeles-based vending machine company, is partnering with local operators to provide state-of-the-art vending machines and nutritious product offerings to residents across Western New York beginning this month. Equipped with digital LCD screens, credit card readers, and ecofriendly features, the vending machines provide only energy-boosting, nutritious foods and beverages. The machines are free to locations, include digital LCD screens that display nutritional tips and product nutritional information. The proceeds generated from the machines are split between the location, the local machine operator, Tom Branden, and causes that fight childhood obesity and malnutrition. Additional information is available by calling Sean Kelly at (917) 664-7455 or e-mailing sean@healthyvending.com .
